Annam June 19, 1915

Our new work in Annam is passing the pioneer stage. Three natives have already been baptized, and there is a class of seven inquirers. Messrs. Soderberg and Birkel have opened a new station at Faifoo, twenty miles from Touraine, a city of 20,000 people where a native house has been rented for a home and chapel. The mission in conference with Dr. Glover is seriously considering the opening of Hanoi, the capital, a great city which is quite open. Mr. Irwin and Miss Morgenthaler joined the mission from the home field, and Mr. Cadman from South China. The recent South China Conference adopted measures for co-operation with the Annam work, retaining the oversight of it in the mother mission, and yet giving sufficient freedom to the local workers for vigorous, aggressive evangelism. The field is vast; the door is open; the workers are full of faith and enthusiasm, and the results are only limited by the resources available.
